MONARCHISTS IN CONTROL OF GERMAN GOVERNMENT

Luetwitz Commander-in-Chief;
American Soldiers Ready For Action.

Berlin, March 16.—The overthrow of the Ebert government was announced in a proclamation issued at 10 o'clock Saturday morning after revolting troops from the suburbs had entered Berlin and occupied the Wilhelmstrasse.

Up to that hour the movement had proved a peaceful one, no disorders developing.

The proclamation declared that the entire authority of the state has passed into the hands of General Provisional Director Kapp as imperial chancellor and premier of Prussia.

The proclamation, issued over the signature of Imperial Chancellor Kapp, says that the mandate of the national assembly to create a constitution and conclude peace has expired and it declares the national assembly dissolved. It adds:

"As soon as internal order has been restored we shall return to constitutional conditions and prescribe new elections."

It was announced that General Baron von Luetwitz had been appointed commander-in-chief of the military by the chancellor and that a new government "of order, freedom and action" was being formed. American Chief Takes Firm Stand. Coblenz March 16.—The American commander yesterday informed the Socialist leaders that no general strike interfering with the function of the army and no demonstration will be permitted in Coblenz. The leaders were informed that if they could not control their followers the American army would do so.

The Independent and Majority Socialists expected to hold a meeting this afternoon to decide on amalgamating with the Socialists of Coblenz in support of a twenty-four-hour general strike Monday.

It became known that the railway men in the Rhineland had decided to join a general strike called for tomorrow in sympathy with the old government, notwithstanding strict orders by the allied military command against strikes which interfere with functions of occupation.

RESERVE BOARD AID ASKED

Flexible Discount Rate Would Enable Farmer to Hold Crops

Washington, March 15.—In an effort to obtain relief for dark tobacco growers, unable to market their crop on the foreign market because of the condition of the monetary exchange, Representative Alben W. Barkley, First Kentucky district, conferred today with officials of the federal reserve board.

The only relief that could be offered by the board would be through passage of a bill now pending in congress providing that the federal reserve board may readjust the rediscount rate and make it flexible, thereby making it possible for the farmers to borrow money to enable them to hold their crops until market conditions improve. At present the rediscount rate is fixed at 6 per cent. The bill has been approved by committees of both houses.

Mr. Barkley made arrangements today to appear before the Ways and Means committee of the house in behalf of the bill permitting the loose leaf retailing of tobacco without the payment of a federal internal revenue tax.

ARTICLE X RESERVATION ADOPTED BY SENATE

Washington, March 15.—The new reservation drafted by Republican leaders to deny the obligations of Article X of the peace treaty was substituted in the Senate today for the reservation which was adopted last November.

The vote by which the substitution was made was 56 to 24, with sixteen Democrats voting for it and eight Republicans against.

The substitute was then adopted by the Senate, 56 to 26, fourteen Democrats voting with the Republicans. The original reservation was adopted last November, 46 to 33, with only four Democrats supporting it.

Several were buried under a grocery store which collapsed while a schoolhouse was blown into the fields and a number of children were hurt.

The injured were being brought into the undamaged part of town when a train passed through containing passengers who brought word of the storm to Lexington. The train doors were locked and nobody was allowed to leave except the conductor. Great damage was reported to country property in the same section.

All telephone lines are down and efforts to obtain full details have been unavailing. Communication was established for a brief period during which it was learned that no one had been killed.

RELIEF IS SEEN FOR LEAF TOBACCO MEN

Representative of Dark Tobacco
Confident United States
Will Aid Them.

Eddyville, Ky., March 11.—Walking to the electric chair with his eyes to the ground and never raising them once, Petrie Kimbrough, negro, convicted under the name of Will Lockett for one of the most brutal murders in the annals of Kentucky criminal history, went to his death at 4:32 o'clock this morning when the prison physician pronounced him dead. Lockett paid the penalty for the murder of 10-year-old Geneva Hardman. Since his incarceration in the death cell he confessed the rape and murder of three other women.

Fifty-five persons—the largest crowd that ever witnessed an execution in Kentucky—saw Lockett go to his death. All were seated in a small room and Tupper and Robert Lee Hardman, brothers of the child whom the negro killed, were within six feet of the condemned man as he sat in the chair and will now return to Fayette County as eyewitnesses that the crime against their sister has not gone unpunished by death. Every promise made the family by the State was carried out. The brothers watched the execution with strained faces.

The brothers' request that they be allowed to throw the switch was denied by Warden John M. Chilton.

Negro Showed No Emotion
Guards appeared at Lockett's cell in death row at 4:14 o'clock and escorted the condemned man to the chair at once. There were no signs of emotion in his face as he took his seat and the black cap was lowered over his features. Prison Electrician Collier turned on the current which snapped out his life in fifteen seconds. It required 2,100 volts and ten amperes. Dr. J. H. Hussey found the negro's pulse lifeless after two shocks had been applied.

In the room were a party of nineteen from Lexington, including the Hardman brothers and Sheriff J. Waller Rhodes, of Fayette County, who had a legal right to witness the execution. The party came by special permission of Governor Morrow in accordance with an agreement made between Circuit Judge Kerr of Fayette and the Hardmans. The others included half a dozen bona-fide newspaper men, prison guards and deputies, soldiers who had been placed on guard at the order of Adjt. Gen. J. M. DeWeese and officials. Lockett's body was buried today in Vinegar Hill, the prison burying ground.

Biggest Crowd Ever At a Kentucky Electrocution Views the Killing.

Hopkinsville, Ky., March 16.—Confident that a way will be found to relieve the present demoralized condition of the Black Patch tobacco market, Charles E. Barker, has arrived here from Washington, where, with William Dudley, Pembroke, he spent ten days in the growers' interest.

Reports sent out from Washington that the War Finance Corporation had no jurisdiction and could not help were unfounded, said Mr. Barker.

"I want earnestly to appeal to the dark tobacco growers to be patient until we can see what results will follow the efforts our representatives are putting forth," he said.

"They are arranging a consideration of the selling and buying interests before the board that loaned $10,000,000,000 to our allies."

"After a full investigation this board that was created for such purpose will relieve the situation if it can."

"Our representative and everybody I talked with feel sure it will do so."

OHIO COUNTY BOY MAKING GOOD

We are in receipt of the following letter from the Department of Journalism, University of Kentucky, relative to the splendid ability of an Ohio County boy, attending that school:

"H. B. Lloyd, Fordsville, son of H. D. Lloyd, junior in the college of Arts and Sciences at the University of Kentucky is majoring in Economics and Business Administration. At the beginning of his third year he was appointed Circulation manager of the 'Kentucky Kernel,' the University newspaper. He not only put his business administration knowledge to work but used the mailing room of the Kernel as a laboratory in which he tested some original ideas of his own. The result is that the time required to start 'Kernels' on the way to their subscribers has been materially cut down. It formerly took from a day to three days to mail out the papers but since Lloyd has taken charge, the last paper is mailed one hour and fifty minutes after it leaves the press."

Lloyd has not confined his energies to the 'Kernel.' He is maintaining his high-school reputation as an orator and is a member of the Patterson Literary society, the Economics Club and the Y. M. C. A.

RICH IN TRADITION

White House Replete With Tender Human Memories.

Associations Dear to the Heart of Every American Cling About the Historic Home of the Chief Executive.

When President Wilson, because of his illness, received the king of the Belgians while propped up in bed, with a torn sweater about his shoulders, and told the prince of Wales that the bed in which he lay had been occupied by Baron Renfrew, later King Edward VII, and Abraham Lincoln, he added traditions to the host that already cling about the White House. With this introduction the National Geographic society has issued a bulletin on the home of the presidents which, it says, has more tender human memories than any other public building in America. From cellar, where colored "mamies" have cooked for presidents, pies "like mother used to make," to attic, where the Roosevelt children played and romped, there are associations which range from the quaint to the sublime.

President Wilson's enforced disability recalls the premeditated negligence—worn slippers, yarn stockings and old suit—by which Jefferson sought to impress the British ambassador with American democracy when that official arrived in full official dress to present his credentials. Early morning callers on John Quincy Adams had to cool their heels until that president finished three chapters in the Bible and walked down back of the White House for a swim in the Potomac. To "drop in" at the White House evenings, quite the sociable thing to do during Jackson's terms, meant finding the chief executive before an open fire, in an old loose coat, doing duty as a smoking jacket, puffing at a long pipe with a bowl of red clay.

Every room of the White House abounds in history. The oak-paneled state dining room knows dinners of the homely sort that Jefferson gave when the Washington village butcher brought along his son, because he heard there was to be an extra place at the table; of the picturesque kind, like one given more than a century ago to the Tunisian ambassador, who was aggrieved because everyone would not withdraw while he smoked his pipe, though his secretary showed his good will by ceremoniously kissing the ladies present; of the bizarre kind given by Theodore Roosevelt to cow punchers, prize fighters and distinguished men of letters, not to mention the famous one with Booker T. Washington as a guest, and many memorable banquets, like those to Marshal Joffre and Sir Arthur Balfour, when the china set of 1,500 pieces and the famous cut glass, every piece of which is engraved with the arms of the United States, were used.

No room is better known to the public than the east room, of late years the scene of brilliant receptions and White House weddings. It, too, has memories of a cruder democracy, when all Washington flocked there to "follow about the servants who carried refreshments, seizing upon whatever they could get," and upon one occasion two "ladies" perched upon the chimney piece to get a better view of the colorful scene.

Recent discussion of gifts received by the president and Mrs. Wilson while abroad lends interest to specimens of those made to other presidents and "first ladies," which remain in the White House. The blue room contains the most famous of these, the gold mantle clock presented to Washington by Lafayette, who received it from Napoleon. In the green room is the Gobelin tapestry, made by a process which now is a lost art, and framed in gold, which the emperor of Austria gave Mrs. Grant. Near by is a lacquer cabinet, gift of Japan on the occasion of the first visit to its ports by American ships. And there are many more.

Country Women Live Longest.

The theory that city women may wear silk hose with impunity and otherwise defy winter's rigors by permitting fashion to decree how few clothes they shall wear, which was advanced by Dr. Royal S. Copeland on the claim that city women live longer than their farm-bred sisters has been given a jolt.

Nothing less than the United States life tables in the 1910 census were quoted by the statistical expert of a leading life insurance company to prove that country women live longer than city women.

Country women have the call so far as expectations of life are concerned, from the moment they make their bow to the world up to the time they reach the ripe age of ninety.

Then and only then do their city sisters gain a lap in the race for long life.

State of Apprehension.

"There's no place like home" is a true and beautiful bit of song.

"Yes. But if I don't have better than the best, I don't want anybody's."

TELEPHONE MERGER

Editor Herald,

Dear Sir:

In this week's issue you speak of an effort on the part of the Cumberland Telephone Co. wanting the Farmers' Mutual Telephone Co. to take over the wires of the Cumberland at the Hartford exchange. I hope the Hartford Division will do no such thing, until it has consulted the other divisions of the Farmers' Mutual Telephone Co.

The Prentiss Division of the Farmers' Telephone Co. had, a few years ago, an arrangement with the Rochester Home, and the Rochester Home was connected with the Cumberland at Morgantown, so that the Prentiss Division soon became involved with quite a lot of long distance business, also involving other divisions, thereby creating a considerable debt, which was paid off by the county Secretary-Treasurer as the people who made the debt paid no attention to it.

If the Hartford Division is in favor of connecting with the Cumberland it would be a wise thing for it to confine its long distance business to its subscribers and those persons talking over their phones. I hope they will do this and not involve other divisions. So sure as there is connection made with the Cumberland and there will be a lot of people wanting to talk free and it will be a lot of trouble to collect the fees.

Yours truly,
J. P. AUSTIN,
McHenry, Ky.

FIRE AT PARIS ENTAILS

LOSS OF ABOUT $50,000

Paris, Ky., March 15.—The confectionery of Q. T. Gatewood, the restaurant of Mrs. Leer Stout and the Fair Store, belonging to J. A. Stern, were gutted by fire which started at 1:30 o'clock Wednesday morning. The fire originated in the attic of the confectionery store and had been smoldering for several hours before being discovered. When the fire department arrived it was badly handicapped at the start by the low water pressure, and the fire gained considerable headway. The upper floors of all three buildings were gutted, and water completed the destruction of the stocks of goods on the lower floors.

Mrs. B. Stern, the 90-year-old mother of Mr. Stern, who was ill in the apartments over the store, was carried to safety by Patrolman George Hill, assisted by Mr. Stern.

The loss is estimated at about $50,000, with $15,000 insurance. Mr. Gatewood, who a few days ago purchased the confectionery from Frank Burton, had taken a partner yesterday, and both he and his partner were out of the city at the time of the fire.

HOOVER TO RUN

IF CALLED UPON

New York, March 12.—Herbert Hoover, in a letter received by Ralph Arnold, of Los Angeles, New York representative of the "Make Hoover President Club" of Calif., declared he was not seeking public office, that his "ambition is to remain a common citizen," but that he believes he, "like every other citizen, always should be ready for service when really called upon."

Mr. Hoover's letter followed the action of a group of prominent Californians residing in this city in appointing a committee to go to Washington to ask Mr. Hoover to make known his position. The committee included Mark Requa, Oil Administrator during the war.

HOUSE APPROVES PEACE-TIME ARMY OF 306,000 MEN

Washington, March 13.—An authorized peace time army of 289,000 enlisted men and 17,320 officers was approved by the House, which by a vote of 79 to 25 refused to amend the Army Reorganization bill so as to fix maximum strength at 226,000 men and 14,200 officers.

The amendment was offered by Representative Dent, Alabama, a Democratic member of the Military Committee.

House action on the amendment, though not final, was regarded by supporters of the measure as virtually settling the strength of the army.

Attack on the Dent proposal was made by both Republicans and Democrats.

Defeat of the Dent amendment did not end the fight of opponents of a "big army." Representative Jones, Democrat, Texas, proposed a cut of 75,000 men in the combat forces and Representative Harrell, Republican, Oklahoma, proposed a reduction of 100,000. The Jones amendment was voted down, 55 to 22, and that by Mr. Harrell was lost without a record vote.

The House also rejected amendments to divorce the transportation and construction services from the Quartermaster's department and set them up as separate corps.

PROHIBITION TAMED

"THE WILD WOMEN"

The New York Herald quotes Miss Rose Rothenberg, New York's only woman assistant district attorney, especially charged with looking after cases involved with women, as saying: "Since the advent of Prohibition there is a great decrease in the numbers of 'wild women' appearing before the police courts. We still have old offenders, too far gone to be influenced by the liquor laws under prohibition, but there is a great change since prohibition became effective."

"The type of prisoners in the women's court formerly showed a startling percentage of young girls. This percentage has decreased encouragingly. The impulsive working girl type of 'wild woman' who was formerly dazzled by the white lights of Broadway and by alcoholic beverages, no longer spends her evenings in barroom gaiety. We find now that she usually goes home to bed about 10:30."

"Even some of the hardened women criminals are dropping from the notice of the district attorney's office, and we attribute this to the difficulty of obtaining liquor or drugs to nerve them for work in partnership with sneakthieves, pickpockets and burglars."

"CERTAIN RIGHTS"

Speaking before the Republican State Convention in Louisville, last week, Mr. A. T. Hert, the Republican National Committeeman for Kentucky, delegate from the State at-large to the National Convention, and, in brief, the Republican party in the State, said:

"Of course, boys, you know I cannot make a speech, but all of you boys do know that I can do certain things up at Chicago, and help Will Hays."

We wonder why the Republican convention was not taken into Mr. Hert's confidence as to what the "certain things" are that he is to do at Chicago. He was afraid to let it instruct its delegates for a particular candidate for the Presidency, because, maybe, that might interfere with these "certain things." He was afraid to have men like Judge O'Rear and Gov. Wilson and Mr. Yerkes on the delegation because, perhaps, they might not agree to "certain things."

"Certain things" is rather an elastic phrase. It might contemplate a great deal. Will one of the "things" be to connect with a Cabinet job?

Come to our store and let us show you the John Deere Pony Tractor Disc Harrow—a sure profit maker behind any standard tractor.

This is an exceptionally strong, light draft, flexible harrow. It has a separate lever for angling each gang so that all tendency of harrow to crowd to one side when working in hard and soft ground, or on hillsides, can be overcome.

Its third lever makes thorough pulverizing possible. With it you can raise or lower the inner ends of the gangs of the front section to make all the discs penetrate at equal depth the entire width of the harrow.

There are other features on this harrow which we would like to show you, such as double bargang frames, twice as strong as any single bar gang frame, all steel stub pole and adjustable spring steel scrapers. Be sure to ask us about these features.

BETTER HOGS AND BETTER FEEDING

There are two factors in connection with the hog business which are always of extreme importance (1) quality of hogs fed, and (2) quality of feeding done. However, under the unfortunate conditions of high priced feed and low priced hogs which have existed during the past six months, the two factors mentioned have become even more important than before. In other words, the man who has fed good hogs and has done good feeding has been able to pull through the hog market slump, so far, in fairly good shape; but the farmer who has been feeding an inferior grade of hogs in a common, inefficient way has lost money, and the more hogs he has fed the more money he has lost. There never has been a stronger argument for better hogs and better feeding than the experience of the past six months.

It is impossible to say too much in favor of better hogs. In fact, quality in all classes of livestock is of extreme importance, good quality often being responsible for the difference between profit and loss in the feed-lot. Good hogs are more efficient users of feed than poor ones; that is, any certain amount of feed put into good hogs will make more pork than if fed to poor hogs. In some way, which is difficult to explain, the good hog is able to digest, assimilate and store in the form of flesh in its own body, a greater proportion of the materials from the feed than the inferior animal.

In this connection, mention should be made of the boar and his importance as a sire. The present day slogan is "Use a pure-bred boar." This should be changed slightly. The slogan should be, "Use a GOOD pure-bred boar." There are pure-bred scrubs (this applies to all classes of animals,) as well as other kinds of scrubs. The fact that a boar is pure-bred, even though he may be registered, does not mean that he is necessarily a good animal or a good sire. A good, pure-bred boar is the kind to seek and the kind that sows should be mated with. A common boar should be given no consideration as a breeder. The quicker he is sent to the shambles, the better.

The above discussion relative to better hogs is very true and highly important, and yet it will benefit a man but little to get better hogs if he will not feed them properly. The two, better hogs and better feeding, must go hand in hand for best results. On the whole, hogs are not fed as well as they could be with but little extra effort and actually less expense. This is quite true in some sections of Kentucky, especially in the Eastern part. It is safe to say that much pork produced on Eastern Kentucky farms is produced at a material loss, costing farmers more than it would to buy it.

Corn, meat, kitchen waste and grass are the foods commonly depended upon in Eastern Kentucky for the production of pork. None of these contain much protein and mineral matter, those materials in feeds which produce bone and muscle, or, in other words, make the animal grow. Certain proportions of protein and mineral matter are absolutely necessary in rations for hogs to produce satisfactory growth and development. The younger the animal, the greater are the proportions of these two materials necessary in the ration. Fattening hogs need but small amounts.

To supply sufficient amounts of protein and mineral matter is undoubtedly one of the outstanding problems in feeding hogs in Eastern Kentucky. Probably the very best answer to that problem is TANKAGE. Tankage is a highly concentrated feed, containing large proportions of protein and mineral matter. It combines to excellent advantage with feeds which are deficient in these two materials. For example, excellent results are obtained from feeding corn and tankage when properly mixed.

The Kentucky Agricultural Experiment Station recommends the following proportions of corn and tankage in mixtures for hogs of different weights:

Hogs weighing 30 to 100 pounds, 100 pounds corn shelled, 10 pounds tankage mixed.
Hogs weighing 10 to 175 pounds 100 pounds corn shelled, 8 pounds tankage mixed.
Hogs weighing 175 to 250 pounds 100 pounds corn shelled, 7 pounds tankage mixed.

About 4 per cent. of the live weight of a hog in grain feed per day is considered a full feed; that is, for example, a 50-pound pig should get about 2 pounds of the corn and tankage mixture, mixed in proper proportions for a pig of that weight (as shown above,) per day. A 100-pound shoat should get about 4 pounds of the mixture per day, etc. If the hogs are running on good pasture, the amount of grain fed per day can be reduced to 2-1-2 to 3 percent. of their weight.

Year in and year out, as a permanent proposition, hog raising is a good business. It is the man who gets in and stays in, who makes the business a study, paying attention to details, feeding good hogs and feeding them properly, who prospers. The man who does not appreciate the necessity of doing these things will do better to devote his energies to some other business.

TO THE CLUB WOMEN OF KENTUCKY

Thursday, March 4th, 1920, will long be remembered as one of the darkest days in Kentucky's history. It was on that day that Kentucky surrendered her leadership in the illiteracy work in which she ranked first in the nation, and took a step which will put her back fifty years. The Evening School Bill was called up in the House by our enemies without our having a moment's notice or a single chance at its defense and was tabled, which, as you know, defeats a bill.

It had been announced through the press of the state that the club women were coming to Frankfort in large numbers on March 10 in the interest of this bill, and the enemies of the measure checked it off in order to prevent their being heard. These tactics employed by administration leaders to prevent Kentucky's patriotic women from gathering here in the interest of a cause they loved, and in which they had invested $22,000, are unparalleled in history. It is an unheard of thing to call up a bill in this manner without giving the advocates of the measure the chance to marshal their forces. The only injustice that could equal it, it seems, would be the sentencing of a prisoner without trial. Much has been said in Kentucky recently about justice and the majesty of the law. It seems inconceivable that such a scheme as this to prevent Kentucky's women from being heard could be concocted.

We might go on and pass this bill through the Senate, but in that event it could only be returned to the House through the same Committee which took the advantage of us before. We have reason to believe that they would carry this injustice to the limit.

The eyes of the educators and the club women of the whole nation have been on us during this fight. It seems most grievous to think that just at this time when the world has awakened to the evil of illiteracy and is clamoring for the education of adults that our state should be the only quitter, yet it will be a proud record for our Federation of Women's Clubs that we fought for the life of the work and would have fought longer had our opportunity not been cut off in a manner so unfair.

We should now consecrate ourselves to the issue of reviving this work and redeeming our state.

Yours very sincerely,

MRS. J. C. LAYNE.

Representative of the Kentucky Federation of Women's Clubs on the Evening School Bill.

OWL DASHES AGAINST WINDOW, SMASHES IT

An immense owl, said to have measured three feet and two inches from tip to tip, dashed against the living room window in the home of John H. Sterrett, Skillman, Ky., and completely smashed it. The peculiar accident happened about 9:30 on Sunday evening of last week while the family was seated in the living room. Fragments of the glass were scattered over the room. After breaking the window the owl was found perched in a tree nearby and was killed with a shot gun by Genie Sterrett.—Breckenridge News.

EDUCATION

A study of the educational facilities of Ohio County as made by the Red Cross Chapter of the county show that the majority of the buildings are well built. However, there are some which are badly in need of repairs. The men who made the studies in twelve precincts of the county report that there are very few sanitary toilets. Dr. Arthur McCormick, Secretary of the State Board of Health, states that the lack of improper toilets or no toilets at all at schools and homes is one of the greatest causes of hook work.

In very few of the schools are sanitary drinking cups provided. Many diseases are caught by children drinking out of the same dipper. One child with mumps or diphtheria might give the disease to all the other children in the school, using the same drinking vessel.

It has also been shown that children using the same pencils, wash basins and towels are very liable to spread diseases of the skin or eyes. This is especially true of the disease called trachoma or granulated eyelids which has been found by physicians and others to be very prevalent in some of the Western Kentucky counties. There is no playground equipment whatsoever.

Home Economics is not taught in the rural communities and in not all of the High Schools of Ohio County. 40 per cent. of the money raised by the children of the Junior Red Cross of Hartford was used to equip the domestic science room of the High School. This does not include the egg money which was raised by the Juniors in the county.

This money may be used in various ways as decided by the chapter school committee upon advice from Division Headquarters. Some of the ways approved by the Division Headquarters are:

Buying crutches for crippled children.

Paying transportation expenses of children to hospitals.

Buying sanitary drinking cups.

Buying playground equipment.

Providing hot lunches.

Conduct a swat the fly campaign.

Of course it must be understood that a school could not undertake more than one or two of these improvements on account of the lack of Junior Red Cross funds. It is hoped that next year every school in Ohio County may become a unit of the Junior Red Cross and undertake one or more of these projects.

Mrs. John B. Wilson, of Hartford, Ky., is Chairman of Junior Red Cross in Ohio County and will be glad to advise with any schools wishing to take up any of the above projects.

AMERICA'S GIFT TO FRANCE

Kentucky is called upon to contribute $6,000 as her share of a national fund of $250,000 for the MacMonnies Statue, commemorating the First Battle of the Marne which will be America's Gift to France. The campaign will be conducted throughout the State the week of March 22.

Governor Edwin P. Morrow, has been appointed honorary Chairman of the campaign and Peter Lee Atherton has been selected as the State Chairman.

The purpose of this campaign is to present to France a monument on the side of the Battle of the Marne. The American sculptor Frederick MacMonnies is now working on the sketches. Mr. Atherton in announcing the plans for the campaign said that in order the statue may be in truth "America's Gift to France" the funds must come from all parts of the country every people in every walk of life. With the comparatively limited sum required it has been thought wise to solicit popular subscriptions ranging from one cent to any amount the donor cares to give. A special appeal to the school children is being made.

Mr. Atherton has appointed a county chairman in each county in Kentucky who will have charge of the campaign during the week of March 22, Kentucky's quota of $6,000 has been prorated throughout the state to such a degree that many counties will be called upon for only $40. The quotas range from that upwards to $2,000 for Louisville and Jefferson County.

This proposed statue has been endorsed by the American Legion and their members will be one of the big factors in the campaign. Every post in Kentucky has been notified and have agreed to assist as much as possible in putting the drive across. In addition to the chairman appointed by Mr. Atherton an attaché of the educational system will be selected by Prof. George Colvin to assist in the campaign.

Present plans indicate the campaign will be a success and Kentucky will again add laurels to her past history for liberal giving.

The Republican majority in the State Senate played poor policy when they unceremoniously called up and defeated the Night School bill that was so strongly sponsored by the Women's Clubs of the state. Mrs. Cora Wilson Stewart inaugurated the Moonlight School system in the mountain schools of Rowan County several years ago, and since that time this method of adult instruction has spread until many states are now using it. The Kentucky Illiteracy Commission through the teachers of the state has done a great work. Thousands of teachers have toiled night after night instructing the grown ups without receiving a penny of financial remuneration, and now when a plan is proposed whereby these teachers would receive pay for their work and illiteracy forever be driven from our fair state, the Republican state machine without even giving its sponsors a hearing has killed the measure.

This was the only bill before the Legislature endorsed by the Federation of Woman's Clubs and thousands of members throughout the state can not understand why their measure was not even given the usual consideration. Many Senators who have grown gray in the service, say this is the first time they have ever known a bill to be called from the Rules Committee by a member who opposed the bill. Mrs. Cora Wilson Stewart voiced the sentiment of the women of the state as well as that of most believers in education, when she said "We know our friends."

The Republican in its last weeks issue calls us to task for stating that the Board of Equalization was merely adjusting raises recommended by Tax Commissioner, D. E. Ward and that the Board would itself probably make other raises which would be adjusted at another meeting to be held later. We also suggested that a land owner might be required to appear before the Board the second time as it had not at that time given notice of its own proposed raises. We stick to the proposition that that any land owner may be given two raises under this system and that the Board will at the next meeting adjust its own raises and not that of the Tax Commissioner.

The negro who murdered little 10 year old Geneva Hardman, of Fayette County, a few weeks ago, has received his punishment. If all such criminals were given such rapid justice as this, the mob spirit would soon die out. As it is, attorneys are too often permitted to delay punishment by pleading that their client is insane, or securing a new trial by finding some technical flaw. In such cases justice should be meted out while he crime is yet fresh in the minds of the people.

The old military party is again in the German saddle, and unless the Allied powers take strong measures to see that all the terms of the Versailles treaty are carried out, a great deal of trouble may develop.

"Truth crushed to earth shall rise again;
The eternal years of God are hers,
But Error, wounded, writhes in pain,
And dies among her worshippers."

Mr. Bryan has intimated that he would not refuse the nomination, if thrust upon him. Strange, isn't it?

LOUISVILLE POPULATION INCREASED BY 10,963

Louisville's population is 234,891.

Figures announced last night by the United States Census Bureau shows the city has gained 10,963 since 1910, an increase of 4.9 per cent.

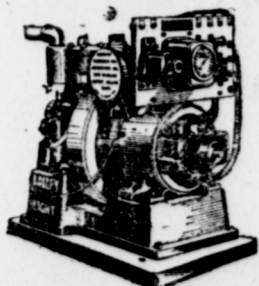

Louisville was the twenty-fourth city in the country in point of population in 1910, an increase of 9.4 per cent at that time over the census of 1900, while from 1896 to 1900 its increase was 27.1 per cent.

Varying degrees of opinion were expressed by business men after the figures for the city were made public. Recent failures of efforts made by the city's legal department to annex additional territory contested by residents of the county were blamed for the small increase shown.

A Friend Recommended Them

A person often does more good than he realizes when he tells a suffering friend how to get well. J. N. Tohill, clerk Lottie Hotel, Evansville Ind., writes: "For weeks I suffered constantly with pains in the muscles of my thigh. I was treated by the doctor for rheumatism but found no relief. Upon recommendation of a friend, I tried Foley Kidney Pills and began to get relief almost immediately." Good for backache, rheumatic pains, stiff joints. Sold everywhere. (Advertisement.)

LALLEY LIGHT and POWER

Lalley Light is a complete unit—engine and generator—built 10-hp. storage battery. It supplies ample electricity for lights, water pump, washing machine, refrigerator, vacuum separator, juicing mill, iron, etc.

Why Lalley Light Is a Better Machine

The widespread impression that the Lalley is a better electric light and power plant, is built on a basis of fact. The Lalley is ten years old, and is far removed from the experimental stage. Those ten years of experience alone would make it better.

It is engineered and manufactured by a corps of experts, chosen for their ability in this particular line.

It has only three moving parts, and big ball-bearings throughout, so that wear and friction are reduced almost to nothing at all.

It would run, if you required it, day and night without stopping, and be none the worse.

It has done so repeatedly in public—the same kind of a machine, in every detail, that you would buy.

Its output of electric current is greater—it is able to do more work, or the same work better.

These are some of the reasons for the Lalley preference which is sweeping the country.

They are some of the reasons why, when you install electric light and power, you should buy the Lalley. See the plant in operation at our store, or have us take it to your home.

"BURSTS OF FIRE"

(By One of Them)

A few days after being assigned to a Machine Gun Company, we began learning the mechanism of the Browning gun, and how to set it up, find the range, adjust the sights and feed in the belt. When the first day for range firing came we were all anxious to do some shooting. When my time came, the Lieutenant in charge of the gun, said: "Shoot once to see if you have the proper sight." I touched the trigger and to my surprise the gun went bang! bang! bang! bang! bang! I had shot a "burst of five." A Browning shoots 600 times a minute and considerable practice is required before you can touch the trigger light enough to produce a single shot.

Before leaving the States, we had 32 mules with which to haul the machine gun and ammunition carts. These mules received more "cussins" every day, than 32 civilian mules ordinarily enjoy in a lifetime. When we went on a hike, two fellows from each squad were detailed as mule leaders and, believe me, 20 miles a day in heavy marching order is bad enough without a mule to keep in line. One minute he is stepping on your heels, the next, you must drag him to keep in the proper formation. Some of them were dangerous. Our Stable Sergeant would always say "Get on in there, the mules won't kick." One day, his brother was crippled up pretty badly by a mule, and after that we would say "Kick your brother."

***

Our convey, which consisted of 12 ships, was on the water 13 days from the time we went aboard at Hoboken until we marched down the gang plank at Liverpool, England. During the trip, each company was assigned to a special duty. Ours was that of watching for submarines. Men were stationed in the life boats swinging out over the water and at other vantage points around the ship and were equipped with field glasses and ordered to remain perfectly at attention while on guard. We were to report any floating object or any unusual commotion in the water. One bright day, while we were in mid-ocean, one fellow leveled his glass on the Carmania, which was some 300 yards away and discovered some Red Cross girls on board. Forgetting his orders, he called some of his buddies and for a time they were having a picnic looking at the girls, but finally the Officer of the Day came around and the boy suddenly realized that they were committing a court martial offense. However, the humor of the situation appealed to the O. D. and the boys got off with a lecture on "Duty Before Beauty."

***

The Corporal of my squad was one of the finest men I have ever known. He was a pharmacist, possessed a university education, had made three tours through Europe, knew considerable French and was liked by everyone from the Captain on down. He got himself into a predicament, however, that was somewhat amusing. We were stationed in the little village of Montereau France, and while there, this corporal was designated to see to the sanitation and health of the company. One dark night, a child of one of the families of the village became very ill and there being no physician in the vicinity, the Corporal was called and was able to give the baby quick relief from its suffering. After that, the Corp had a case of it, for every time a baby grunted or an old lady had indigestion, he was sent for. Although those people were kinder than any we found elsewhere, the Corporal blessed the day when orders came that we were to hike to another town.

***

One of the most peculiar accidents that I have ever known to occur, was witnessed by some of the boys of our division, while we were stationed in central France. Although we were many miles from an aviation camp, there was an aviator who made almost daily trips over our divisional area. One day having some minor trouble with his engine, he descended a few miles below Montereau and selected a public highway as a landing place. As he swooped down into the road, an automobile came speeding up and the two collided while going at a considerable rate. If we remember right, the aviator was killed while the chauffeur escaped.

MILITARISM

"It is a remarkable fact, says the Stanford Interior Journal, that whenever a Republican is governor of Kentucky, the use of soldiers begins. During Governor Bradley's term they were called out many times to stop toll gate raiding, while during Wilson's administration they were almost constantly on duty fighting night raiders, determined on regulating tobacco sales. Now when Governor Morrow's term was less than two months old, soldiers were again on duty, this time with deplorable results. The law must be maintained though, at all hazards, and its supremacy upheld. We are not finding fault with the use of soldiers when necessary, but it seems strange that they are rarely needed during Democratic administrations."

It must also be remembered that Governor Taylor for his short duration had the soldiers right at his elbow shown by their quick appearance at the Goebel assassination.

FATE OF WHISKY TAX BILL IS LEFT TO STATE SENATE

Frankfort, March 13.—Whether or not the Vance whisky tax bill will come before the Senate this session was a mooted question today when the Senate Rules Committee, with only six of the nine members present, at first voted not to bring the bill out. This meeting was held in executive session about 9:30 o'clock and Senator Charles M. Harris, chairman, notified Senator Brock, Republican leader, to that effect. Senator Brock immediately told Governor Morrow about the situation and the Governor appeared before the Rules Committee at a later session, which delayed the opening of the Senate until about 11 o'clock.

The Governor notified the committee that while the whisky tax bill had been introduced by a Democrat it was looked on with favor by the Administration and he considered it a bill that should be reported immediately for the consideration of the Senate.

Senator Nunn, Carter and Rives, who were not present at the first meeting of the committee this morning, attended the later session. It was then agreed by the committee to report the bill without an expression of opinion and to allow the Senate to decide its fate.

It also developed today that Thomas B. Bullitt of the firm of Wright & Taylor, Louisville, made an argument last Friday before the Rules Committee against the adoption of this bill on the ground that a differential of 50 cents a gallon on Kentucky whisky would prevent the sale of any whisky from this State for medicinal purposes. Other representatives of the whisky interests also were heard at the same time.

Senator Nunn was not present at the first meeting this morning because of the sudden serious illness of Senator M. C. Swinford of Cincinnati, who suffered an attack of acute indigestion shortly after his arrival at the Capitol, but who was taken by Senator Nunn and Senator Whitaker, the latter a physician, to the rest room of the Senate, where he was attended by Doctor Whitaker.

FIRE IN NEW ORLEANS

New Orleans, March 14.—Fire started early Wednesday in the plant of the American Coffee Company, in the wholesale district, practically destroyed that plant and the adjoining warehouse of August B. Plaspeller Company and badly damaged the warehouses of the J. G. Morris Company and the Thomas J. Kelly Company.

Estimates were that the loss would exceed $100,000. The fire started on the second floor of the American Coffee Company and threatened the destruction of the entire block.

Man Claims Relief Gained Through

Trutona Treatment Worth

$100.

Owensboro, Ky., March 10.—"I only spent $1.00 for my first bottle of Trutona but I wouldn't take $100 for the relief that it gave me." This is the statement of Mr. W. H. Hornbaker, 58 years old, of 1120 Breckenridge Street. Mr. Hornbaker is assistant yard foreman in the Murphy Chair Co., and during his 30 years residence in this city had become very well known.

"A catarrhal affection of the head and bronchial tubes caused me much trouble," he said, "I was bothered with constipation and my kidneys were out of order. My bowels did not act for two or three days at a time. I was constantly annoyed with the dripping of mucus from my mouth. Often I became choked up and would cough until I vomited."

"Well sir, Trutona has certainly improved my catarrhal condition. The mucus has become loosened and I can spit it out without suffering the terrible coughing spells. My kidneys are in better shape, too. Why, I can walk all the way home without my back hurting me. There are 200 men in our factory and I am daily recommending Trutona to some of them who need relief."

Trutona is not being advertised and explained in Hartford at the Ohio Co. Drug Company, Trutona is sold in Beaver Dam, at the Beaver Dam Drug Co. (Advertisement.)

Catarrhal Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure catarrhal deafness, and that is, by a constitutional remedy. Catarrhal Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian tube. When this tube is inflamed, you have a running ear or impaired hearing and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result. Unless the inflammation can be relieved and the tube restored to a normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever. Many cases of deafness are caused by catarrh, which is an inflamed condition of the Eustachian tube. Having Catarrh of the Eustachian tube, the blood on the mucous membrane of the tube.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Catarrhal Deafness that cannot be cured by local applications. Write to J. C. GILBERT, 100 N. 2nd St., St. Louis, Mo.

THE ETON LEADS SUIT FASHIONS

But it has formidable rivals in the many ripple effects and severely tailored models also featured here.

There's a youthful dash about them, as they are interpreted here, that never fails to captivate. Tricotines and Serges are the fabrics most of them choose for their brief jackets and—almost always—accordion pleated skirts. Silk girdles, snug sleeves and braid or embroidery trimming further distinguish them.

You will want one when you see them, we are quite sure, but if you prefer a Suit of another type, we are equally well prepared to serve you right.

VOGUE HATS

Hand Tailored in New York

There is a stinging interest to the fact that Vogue Hats, fascinating and brilliant to a wonderful degree, reflect the style-cunning of a designer whose salon is but a step from the fashion streak of the world—Fifth Ave.

FROCKS OFFER DIVERSITY IN STYLE

Trim and trig, the Frocks of Tricotine and Serge adopt silk braid, embroideries and oftentimes gorgeous vests as trimming. As costumes for the street they are incomparable inasmuch as they do away with the necessity of wearing outer wraps.

The frocks for afternoons are noticeably more frivolous in development. While taffetas in billowy, bouffant effects, are undeniably the most popular. Frocks of clinging tricolettes, shimmering satins and sheer Georgettes are close seconds.

The wide-at-the-hip silhouette prevails, but here are plenty of bewitching straightline models, too. Choice is offered of navy, blue, brown, black and many new Spring colorings.
